LCP EXPANDS INTERNATIONAL NETWORK ACROSS SOUTH AMERICA

10 JUNE 2010

Lane Clark & Peacock LLP ("LCP") today announces that Brazilian consultancy Rodarte Nogueira joins its international network of partner firms.

Colin Haines, international partner at LCP, said: "Brazil is one of the largest global economies and continues to be an attractive overseas investment opportunity for many multinational corporates. By inviting Rodarte Nogueira to join our network, our international clients will be able to benefit from their vast experience of Brazilian pension issues."

João Roberto Rodarte, Director General of Rodarte Nogueira, said: "Brazilian pension plans grew by over 50% in 2009. Furthermore, Brazil's expanding place in the global economy means Brazilian companies and pension plans require advice at a local and global level, especially after the convergence of Brazilian and international accounting rules. By joining LCP's international network we have strengthened our ability to provide such services."

Rodarte Nogueira is one of the largest actuarial consultancies in Brazil. Founded in 2000, it provides actuarial and benefit consultancy services to pension plans sponsored by companies across a range of industries including energy, infrastructure and financial services.

Rodarte Nogueira is the sixth company to join LCP's international network in the past two years. It follows the addition in November 2009 of Novaster, one of the largest Spanish independent pension actuarial and investment consultancies, which also provides advice in South America. Through both firms, LCP is now well placed to help clients across the South American continent.

LCP's international network, known as the Multinational Group of Actuaries ("MGAC"), was founded in 1991 and provides a full range of international consulting services. Network firms have together over 6,000 employees in more than 25 countries across five continents, and advise two-thirds of the world's 100 largest multi-nationals.
